DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Letica (4383819).

Letica teaches the first and second mold components (34,16) that forms the cavity, the slide member (56) and the actuating pin (18) that is oblique (Fig. 1).

3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ballester (5824256).

Ballester teaches a first mold component (4), a second mold component (2), a cavity (22) formed by the components, a sliding member (28), and an actuating pin (42) that is oblique in regards to the second mold member (Fig. 6).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

6. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Letica (4383819).

Letica teaches the first and second mold components, the primary cavity, the slide member and the actuating pin. Letica teaches means for retaining the actuating pin in the second mold component.

This can be seen at element (A), there is a fastener that holds the actuating pin in place. This is an equivalent function with a notch and a key for engaging the notch in the actuating pin. It would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Letica with a notch in the periphery of the actuating pin wherein the key can engage the notch and hold the pin in place.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 3-6 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

8. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The prior art of record, Letica and Ballester, fails to teach a key for engaging the notch in the parting line face, or the key being received in a relief in the parting line face, of the second mating mold component. The closest prior art being Letica and Ballester that fastens the actuating pin inside the second mold component, but not at the parting line face.

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. William (5407344), Burger (6126429).
